

i am extremely opposed to more calls, i already receive to many as it is AND some of the companies that are not supposed to be able to call me somehow squeak through and call me anyway. who do these companies think they are? just because we are their customers does not mean that we give up rights to privacy. mail things to me but do not call me.